Re: [REDACTED] 4/13/2001

[REDACTED] level of planning and activity may be underway which may presage one or more attacks. Indications of terrorist planning and preparation in recent weeks seem to focus on [REDACTED] and [REDACTED] as possible target locations. U.S. interests in [REDACTED] particularly [REDACTED] remain UBL's preferred target. Al-Qaeda associated personnel also are reported to be stepping up efforts to conduct possible attacks in [REDACTED]. The reporting available on Al-Qaeda operations possibly being planned for [REDACTED] contains no information on specific targets. The current reporting suggesting the increased level of threat warning is a compilation of [REDACTED]

[REDACTED] The Al-Qaeda organization and associated extremists are known to be searching worldwide for security vulnerabilities which might enable a successful attack against U.S. facilities or personnel. Lack of reporting is not indicative of reduced risk as, in addition to the areas discussed above, Sunni extremists are known to have associates located in many areas worldwide. As demonstrated by the attack on the [REDACTED] they are capable of long term surveillance and planning in a target area that enables them to recognize and exploit vulnerabilities, including those that have a limited window of opportunity. Historically, attack planning and execution have taken at least several months.

[REDACTED] Notably, reporting has indicated that Al-Qaeda operatives, [REDACTED] have been involved in operational planning in several different geographic locations. [REDACTED] Reporting noted the continued movement of personnel and material between [REDACTED] and [REDACTED], as well as between [REDACTED] and [REDACTED]. Additionally, reporting implied that [REDACTED] activities must be completed in the next few weeks, but did not address specific dates.

[REDACTED] UBL's organization may be in the advanced planning stages of a terrorist attack against U.S. interests in [REDACTED]. The reporting involves movement of terrorists from [REDACTED] following training there. Furthermore, explosives and arms are being smuggled into [REDACTED] for use against U.S. and Western targets. However, the Intelligence Community has been unable to narrow the list of potential targets. It should be noted that although UBL's stated preference for [REDACTED] other targets could include [REDACTED]. Other possible targets could include [REDACTED]. Other possible [REDACTED] which would be prominently be identified as American.

Re: [REDACTED] 4/13/2001

[REDACTED] Several Islamic jihadists have had a heightened interest in targeting [REDACTED] since [REDACTED] extremist [REDACTED] In [REDACTED] March 2001, a [REDACTED] made plans to expedite work on a suspicious, [REDACTED] terrorist-related activity, which might take place in [REDACTED] the need for haste, as travel was planned [REDACTED]

[REDACTED] Also in [REDACTED] March, [REDACTED] engaged in apparent operational preparation with [REDACTED] and [REDACTED]

[REDACTED]

One limiting factor which seems to be evident is funding. Intelligence suggests that preparation is slowed by the lack of available funding to support the operation(s).
