September 11, 2001

118. American Airlines Flight 11

a. Flight 11 was hijacked by Mohammed Atta (seat 8D, Business Class), Abdul Aziz Alomari (seat 8G, Business), Waleed al-Shehri (seat 2B, First Class), Wail al-Shehri (seat 2A, First Class) and Satam al-Suqami (seat 10B, Business Class). Atta was the pilot.

b. At 6:00 a.m., Atta and Alomari boarded US Air Flight 5930 departing Portland, Maine, to Boston Logan Airport. They were each carrying a black shoulder bag when they passed through security. At Logan Airport, Atta received a telephone call on his cellular telephone from a pay phone located inside Logan's Terminal C, where United Airlines Flight 175 was boarding.

c. At 6:45 a.m., Wail al-Shehri's white Mitsubishi arrived at the Logan parking lot with three passengers. At 7:00 a.m., Satam al-Suqami checked one bag for the flight.

d. Later in the day, two pieces of luggage in the name of Mohammed Atta, which had not been loaded onto American Airlines Flight 11, were recovered at Logan. Among other items, the bag contained a handwritten letter in Arabic that gave both spiritual and literal instructions on how to behave during the hijacking operation. Copies of this letter were also recovered at the crash site of United Airlines Flight 93 and in the car registered to Nawaf al-Hazmi that was found at Dulles International Airport.

119. United Airlines Flight 175

a. Flight 175 was hijacked by Marwan al-Shehhi (seat 6C, Business Class), Hamza al-Ghamdi (seat 9C, Economy Class), Mohand al-Shehri (seat 2B, First Class), Ahmed al-Ghamdi (seat 9D, Economy Class) and Fayez Banihammad (seat 2A, First Class). Al-Shehhi was the pilot.

Moussaoui Contacts Commercial Jet Simulator Schools

o. On May 18, 2001, Moussaoui, using his internet address of pilotz123@hotmail.com, sent an e-mail message to Flight Safety International requesting information on simulator training. The e-mail stated:

Hi Mr. Sersrgion. My name is obviously not Mr. Zuluman but I need some information on how to achieve my life time dream. I want to Pilot a big Jet so I need to know what qualification I need to get my rating on any Airbus 300 and on being 737 and Boeing 747 and 777. I am currently taking PPL and I plan to do the instrument staigth away. I am currently a student at Airman Flying School. I do not plan to take my commercaail this year. I need to know if I can do a rating on one of this Big plane without having a Commercial. In due time I will explain to you why but basically to fly in a simulator one of this plane is MY DREAM so can you do it and how ti cost and what are the minimum qualification to enter you simulator course. Waiting for response thank you in advance. Zuluman.

p. On May 21, 2001, Moussaoui sent another e-mail message from his internet address of pilotz123@hotmail.com to Flight Safety International:

Hi, I would like some information on if I can get a full Simulator Training on a Boeing or Airbus even if I am not a Commercial Pilot. I am doing my PPL but my dream is to fly one of these big bird of course in a simulator. Will you consider me even if I have not pass all the exam I know it is a bit peculiar but I am 33 years old so a bit late to start a pilot career and the school where I do my ppl now told me he will take me two year before being a qualified atp pilot. But for the moment I just want the experience to fly.

q. On or about May 21, 2001, Moussaoui received the following e-mail response from Sergio Casce at Flight Safety International:

Congratulations on your career choice. I would recommend you complete your Instrument and Commercial training first and then concentrate on heavy jet training. Minimum time required to enter any of our airline courses is 2000 hours TT and 500 hours of Jet.

Keep flying and best regards.

Moussaoui responded on or about May 22, 2001, that same day to Mr. Casce, as follows:

Thanks you very much for you quick response. Mr. Sergio I have to say that I am a bit sad and surprise because why it is not possible to access of simulator course if you are not a Commercial Pilot with 2000 etc. hrs. I am sure that you can understand that somebody is ready to spend a bit money to have the experience of a life time to fly one of these Big Bird. I do not intended to become a Airline Pilot. I am 33 years old a bit late to start But this is one of my dream. Really it should not be of any problem as long as you pay the only thing is that you do not give the rating at the end of the course not a big deal for me. Please give a second thought. In case it is impossible to do it with your company could you give me some company name who do simulator training in the U.S. I could try my luck. Finally could you advise me where to buy the best PC simulator for large airliner something with Rudder pedal throttle et some thing every professional. Thank you for your time and have a nice day. Zuluman.

r. On May 23, 2001, Moussaoui, using his internet address of pilotz123@hotmail.com, sent an e-mail message to PanAm Flight Academy requesting information on simulator training. The e-mail read as follows:

Hello Mrs. Matt. I am Mrs. Zacarias. I contacted you today by phone. Basically I need to know if you can help to achieve my goal my dream. I would like to fly in a professional like manners one of the big airliners. I have to made my mind which of the following: Boeing 747, 757, 767, 777, and/or Airbus 300, it will depend on the cost and which one is easiest to learn. The level that I would like to achieve is to be able to takeoff and land to handle communication with ATC to be able to successfully navigate from A to B, JFK to Heathrow for example. In a sense to be able to pilot one of these Big Bird even if I am not a real professional pilot. I am ready to take instrument course to achieve some basic understanding. I have around 55 hrs. of fly in a 152 and I passed my written PPL last month. I know it could be better but I am sure that you can do something. After all we are in AMERICA and everything is possible. Have nice day waiting for a positive fly.

Thanks you Zac.

s. On May 25, 2001, Moussaoui received the following e-mail to his internet address of pilotz123@hotmail.com from Mike Calcagno of Flight Safety Boeing:

Hello, my name is Mike Calcagno, Customer Account Manager of Flight Safety Boeing. Your email has been forwarded to me by Jim Downey. Of the training requested, we can offer only the 737 type rating. The price for the course is $10,250 ($2,550 if not training as a crew) and requires approximately 25 days to complete. We usually require 1,500 hours of flight time as a pre-requisite. If you have continued interest in this course, let me know and I can give you more specific information. Have a good day. Mike Calcagno, Flight Safety Boeing.

Moussaoui responded to this e-mail on May 25, 2001, as follows:

Hi Mrs. Calcagno. Thank you for your response. First I have to clarify a few point basically what I want to achieve is my Dream to be able to fly a large airline. You have to know that I 57 hrs of training on my PPL not completed. I have the written PPL Next Tuesday. I will be starting the ground instrument Airmen Flying School not really to pass the exam for the moment but to get enough understand in order to comprehend and enjoy my Sim training. So I am interested in learning to have the experience to fly an Airliner. I do appreciate that I will not be able to become proficient like a professional but I want to reach a standard where I can say to myself that I can fly from JFK to London for example. So I will like to be able to takeoff and land, handle ATC communication, and find my way in the sky, navigate. I am interested on the following: Boeing 777, 767, 757, 747, an airliner with the minimum flight crew workload and maximum range but I have not decide which one yet. So I am waiting for you response hoping that you will fulfill my American Dream. Have a nice day.

t. On May 28, 2001, Moussaoui, using his internet address of pilotz123@hotmail.com, sent the following e-mail from to the Training Services Division of United Airlines:

First, Good Bless United Airline. You have to know I have been looking for such service for weeks. My name E name is Mrs. Zuluman and I would like to know if you could give me my dream. I am currently doing a PPL and Instrument course so I have a small understanding of flying but I was doing it because most of the company I have contacted told me that to get a Boeing training even for fun you have to have at least instrument rating. But God Bless America I discovery you. So could you provide the following training package. I want a complete Professional like training on one of Boeing 747, 757 or 777. When I say professional, I mean that at the end of the Training I want to be able to say to myself that I did fly from NY to London in a safe and professional manner. I am not interest in just a small ride on a Boeing. I want to Taxy, Takeoff, Navigate, make a diversion, Land and Emergence, not a poweroff stall. Like I told you, I am currently in a Flying school in Oklahoma. When I will have finish the ground instrument school I will come to fly with. Please give your quotation that correspond to my requirements.

u. On June 2, 2001, Moussaoui, using his internet address of pilotz123@hotmail.com, sent the following e-mail to Sandra Guthrie of United Airlines:

Hello, thanks you for your response. But, I will it be possible for you to tell how much it will cost me to achieve the level of training I describe in my previous Email. Roughly, to be able to act almost as a PIC. To beacome well verse in Landing, take off, navigation, ATC communication. I do appreciate that I might not be able to achieve the level of proficiency of a real PIC with 2000 hrs. but I am still interested to receive a professional like training. I seems to me that even in your Gold program (2hr) it will not be possible to reach this level. So please you are the professional, you could be flexible and tell how much it will cost me to reach my dream. Have a nice day.

v. On June 4, 2001, Moussaoui received the following e-mail on his internet address of pilotz123@hotmail.com from Mike Calcagno of flight safety Boeing (fsbti.com):

Mr. Zuluman, I have been informed that in order for you to participate in our course, the following would be required: Minimum of 500 flight hours. Commercial license. Instrument rating. Based on the experience level you indicated to me, we will not be able to help you at this time. Good luck in your future endeavors. Mike Calcagno.

w. On June 4, 2001, Moussaoui, using his internet address of pilotz123@hotmail.com, sent the following e-mail to Sandra L. Guthrie of United Airlines:

Hello, Ms Sandra, than you for your response. I understand fully the information mentioned in your e mail, but could you tell if I will be able to buy more than 4 hrs, really it should be possible to fly as much as somebody can afford. Second, could your advise me on any pre training reading I could do in order to maximise my "potential." Basically I like to organise a full flight from JFK to KLL (Malaysia) with a stop over in London. In order to facilitate the training it will be preferrably mainly on Autopilot and for Approach and Landing it will use GPS. May be I like to try a VFR landing on 747 or 757. So please tell me what to read, if you have a training preparation manual you could sent it to me (of course I will pay for it). So have a nice day and hear from you soon, Bye.

x. On June 5, 2001, Moussaoui, using his internet address of

Hello. Ms Sandra, thank you for you time and effort, I will contact you soon after I finish my Ground Instrument School in Airman Oklahoma to arrange the detail of the training. I know that you told me that pilot manual are only for United Airline Pilot but you must have a training kit, that explain different procedure for Takeoff, landing etc, that what I am interested not the full POH/FM only some training material that will enable to prepare my flight on the 747 and 757 (I have in mind to try them both). Thank you in advance for you understanding. Have a great day.

y. On June 5, 2001, Moussaoui, using his internet address of pilotz123@hotmail.com, sent the following e-mail to Mike Calcagno of flight safety Boeing

Hi, ok I understand, but the good news is that I find a program, Pilot for a Day at United Airline in Denver Colorado where I will be able to fly in a simulator. Because I wanted to prepare my training I asked them a training manual for the 747 and 757, they told me only Boeing will give them. So when I contacted Boeing they told that YOU Flightsafety International are dealing with this kind of enquiry. I am sure that you have a high quality training package material, so could you please indicate to me where and how to buy them. I will be immensely grateful if you could provide this information to me. Thanks You in advance for your time and effort. Have a nice Day.

z. On June 11, 2001, Moussaoui, using his internet address of pilotz123@hotmail.com, sent the following e-mail to Boeing:

Hello. I would like to know where I can get (buy) a POH/FM for the Boeing 747. I need this because I am going to participate to the Programm Pilot for A Day run by United Airlines, where you get to fly a 747 in a simulator, and they told me that only you have this. You appreciate that I need to get to know the Procedure and the Flight Deck. It will be great if you would indicate to me where to get a training manual for the 747. Thanks you. PS ready to pay for the service.

aa. On June 11, 2001, Moussaoui, using his internet address of pilotz123@hotmail.com, sent by e-mail to Boeing a Boeing form that was completed by "Moussaoui Zacarias":

I would like a Simulator Checkride Procedure Manuals for the Boeing 747 or Training manual for Pilot relating to all flight operations. I will be participating in the training program of United Airline in Denver Colorado, Pilot for a Day, You get to fly a Boeing 747 in a simulator. I already talk to Account Representative Flight Training Services Sandy Guthrie at United Airline Denver Colorado. In order to have a "professional like training," I intended to buy at least 20 hrs. so I can achieve my dream to fly a Boeing 747 from JFK to Heathrow. They told me to contact you in order to have a training material (because there is exclusively for UA pilot). I am currently doing my PPL and have take instrument ground lesson. Please, do understand that I need a real training material.

bb. On June 18, 2001, Moussaoui, using his internet address of pilotz123@hotmail.com, sent the following e-mail to Boeing:

Hello, thanks you for your response, Could you give me an idea how long it will take rough, I will really appreciate, because I am literally waiting for this to start my training. Thanks you in advance.

cc. One June 19, 2001, Moussaoui, using his internet address of pilotz123@hotmail.com, sent the following e-mail to Sandra L. Guthrie of United Airlines:

Hello, Sandra. I just need few more infos. When we discuss you talk to me about the 747 100/200 but what I am real interested in the 747 400 so could you tell me the cost for additional training for this one, and if you have preferenciel tariff, or time to undertake the training. I know that you do not provide individual training, but do you know any other company who does? I will greatly appreciate, so I will be able to get an initial training and then come and buy some hrs. with you to enjoy myself. Thank you for your help. Zuluman.

dd. On June 21, 2001, Moussaoui, using his internet address of pilotz123@hotmail.com, sent the following e-mail to instruct@flightinfo.com:

Hello. I would like to have a list of company that provide a flight simulator for the Boeing 747. In the US. I only find 2 (UA and Pan am) surely they must be more than that in the US. Please could you help me. Have a nice day.

The same day, Moussaoui received the following response:

Those are the only 2 that I know of. Best bet is to post a message on the message boards and ask that question . . . there will most likely be someone there who can answer your question. Mark. Aviation Communication, Inc. <http://www.flightinfo.com>.

ee. On June 23, 2001, Moussaoui, using his internet address of pilotz123@hotmail.com, sent the following e-mail to Boeing:

Hello, so that the way it go, but may you could help on the two following point. First, do you know any company or publisher who sell a flight manual for the boeing 747, for example the company Sporty do sell the flight manual for the 757 & 767 but not for the 747. Second could you provide with the company who profivide simulator training for the 747. I know that your branch Flight international does, but I contacted them, but they do not train individual, then there is UA and Pan Am, do you know anybody else who give training on the 747 simulator. Thank you for your help.

ff. On June 25, 2001, Moussaoui, using his internet address of pilotz123@hotmail.com, sent the following e-mail to Mike Calcagno of flight safety Boeing (fsbti.com):

Hello, Mrs Calcagno, we have been in contact concerning training on 747-400 but it did not go through because of my like of experience, remember, But could you tell, because you are a branceh of Boeing which other compagnies provide training for the 747-400 in the US and in the World (I know UA and PAN AM) Thank you in advance for your help.

Mike Calcagno responded that day as follows:

Zuluman, Since we are unable to provide training to you on the 747 and I do not have experience with 747 training, my suggestion to you is to research the internet for possible training companies on that aircraft. Mike Calcagno.

gg. On June 28, 2001, Moussaoui received a fax from Matt Tierney, Sales Director at Pan Am, Flight Academy, regarding his Custom B747-400 Pilot Course. The fax is Exhibit No. MN00617.1. The fax read:

PART VI

COMPUTER ASSISTED PASSENGER PRE-SCREENING SYSTEM ("CAPPS")

132. In October 1997, the FAA issued a security directive requiring air carriers to employ an automated passenger prescreening system known as the Computer Assisted Passenger Prescreening System (CAPPS), which automatically scored each passenger's security risks based upon a computer weighing of various factors and then selected those believed to constitute the greatest security threat. Air carriers were responsible for examining each CAPPS selectee's checked baggage for explosives using an FAA-approved method, including screening with explosive detection equipment, screening with a trace detection system designed to identify the residue of explosives, examination by a bomb-sniffing dog, positive passenger bag matching, or physical search of the checked bags. Selectees were not required to undergo any additional screening of their person or carry-on baggage at the checkpoint.

133. The CAPPS process described in the previous paragraph was in effect on September 11, 2001. Of the four flights hijacked on September 11, 2001, the following hijackers were selected by CAPPS:

- a. Flight 11: three of the five hijackers were selected by CAPPS. Waleed al Shehri was selected by CAPPS but did not check any bags, so there was no consequence from his CAPPS selection. Waleed al-Shehri and Satam al-Suqami were selected by CAPPS and their checked bags were examined for explosives before they were loaded onto the plane.

Additionally, Mohammed Atta was selected by CAPPs when he traveled on Colgan Air Flight 5930 from Portland, Maine, to Boston on September 11, 2001. Because the Portland Jetport lacked an explosives detection screening system for checked bags at the time, Atta's checked luggage was held at the counter until Atta boarded the flight.

b. Flight 175: none of the hijackers were selected by CAPPs.

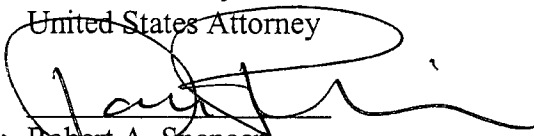

c. Flight 77: three of the five hijackers were selected by CAPPs. Majed Moqed was selected by CAPPs and his checked bag was held until he boarded the plane. Hani Hanjour and Khalid al-Mihdhar were selected by CAPPs but did not check any bags, so there was no consequence from their CAPPs selection. Although the other two Flight 77 hijackers, Nawaf and Salem al-Hazmi, were not selected by CAPPs, they were treated as CAPPs selectees because they lacked sufficient identification when they checked in at the ticket counter and had difficulty understanding English. Salem al-Hazmi did not check any bags, so there was no consequence from his CAPPs selection. Nawaf al-Hazmi checked two bags, so his checked bags were held until he boarded the plane.

d. Flight 93: one of the four hijackers was selected by CAPPS. Ahmad al-Haznawi was selected by CAPPS and his checked bag was examined for explosives before it was loaded onto the plane after confirmation that al-Haznawi had boarded the plane.
